

Cell Power Detoxification

Many natural health professionals believe trapped poisons are the cause of all disease. Because detoxification is so vital in the prevention of disease it's crucial we take a look at available options.

Detoxification is a very important daily process your body goes through to make space available for nutrient absorption and prepare for healing. If cell membranes aren't opening to release toxins into the blood-stream, cells become more toxic and in some cases can mutate into other types of cells, including cancer. Do Cell Power® and Super Silica™ help with cellular detoxification? They can help and both have distinct roles to play in cellular detoxification.

Cell Power® has a unique role in health. It can bring energy to the body at the cellular level. When the cells are powered up, they will open their cell membrane more easily to release poisons and cellular debris that have been held in the cells.

Those confined poisons and debris are taking up space needed for nutrients to sustain and feed the cells. Get rid of the trapped toxins and gain greater nutrient absorption.

The second way Cell Power® can help with detoxification is with invading organisms. The sunlight energy in Cell Power® is welcomed and utilized easily by the healthy cells of the body and good gut bacteria (flora), because they have strong outer membranes. Bad bacteria (infectious) and parasitic organisms have weaker outer membranes and they can't handle the energy. Fungus and other organisms have a hard time living when Cell Power® is around.

Super Silica™ plays a very different role in detoxification. Silica aids the body in removal of unwanted metals and chemical toxins. Because of its unique structure Silica can help the body cleanse itself of undesirable metals and escort them out of the body. Aluminum is remarkably easy to remove with Silica. Those of us encountering high exposure to metals or chemicals (like hair stylists, mechanics, and those in manufacturing) should consider daily Silica supplementation to improve the daily detoxification needed by the cells.

Remember in any detoxification program that EXTRA WATER is vital to keep the toxins and poisons flowing out of the body after removal from the cells. Detoxification is only effective and long-lasting when toxins completely exit the body. Let's get them out with extra water, Cell Power®, and Super Silica™.
